

Cruinn Community Lawful Charter 2022

We the living men and living women created this lawful charter to establish founding principles for the Cruinn Community. This 'Charter' will ensure the well-being of all living men and living women and provide a Common Law justice system, free from statutory authorities. The Cruinn Community have trained living men and living women as Common Law Court Constables ("CLCC") to maintain and enforce Common Law Courts decisions, and created alternative education, healthcare, media, and our own currency – 'the Cruinn'. The Common Law Court Embassy is in Scotland, just north of Edinburgh.

Founding Principles

One hundred (100) signing living men and living women created this lawful charter, under the Declaration of the Common Law Court, which stands under the following laws:

- To become a living man or living woman in the Cruinn Community, having declared your birth with the Common Law Court, confirmed "living" status, and obtained ownership of your 'Fictitious Name' with the Common Law Court Great Britain & International;
- Living men and living women are not to cause any loss to another;
- Living men and living women are not to cause any harm to another;
- Living men and living women are not to cause any injury to another;
- Living men and living women honour all fully transparent contracts they sign and agree upon ...

to establish the Cruinn Community, under Common Law Court jurisdiction, standing for truth and freedom, never to be brought under any legal act or statute, where 'Maritime Law' is excluded in all its forms. This Lawful Charter for the Cruinn Community includes the signatures of the Cruinn Community elders, and is hereby recorded into the Common Law Court 'Book of Deeds' on 25 November 2022 for preservation.

1. This charter provides provisions for founding elders to make Common Law jurisdiction decrees, orders and guidelines to assist with the development and enforcement of Common Law principles. These Common Laws apply to all living men and living women in the Cruinn Community, including elders. A jury of living men and living women lawfully convened Common Law Court can create additional guidelines. A Cruinn Community founding elder does not have this authority on his or her own.
2. The Cruinn Community has the right to make further appointments for local elders, bound by the terms of this charter, ensuring founding Common Law principles are adhered to in their local communities.
3. All living men and living women in this Cruinn Community shall be entitled to their inalienable rights, which were granted when they were born, not to be altered, removed, changed, or charged for under any circumstances, and automatically accepts their new-born children.
4. The ten (10) living men and living women elders of the Cruinn Community are to ensure Common Law is adhered to. Founding elders of Cruinn Community Lawful Charter ensure that any who fail to honourably comply with Cruinn Community founding principles, laws, decrees and orders, lose their status. Elders remain in position until they retire, are mentally deficient, or removed, then volunteers can forward their name to the remaining nine (9) elders. To become a community elder, one must be twenty (20) years of age or older, and a founding elder must be at least twenty-five (25) years of age.

Founding Orders

Order No. 10001/22, Lawful Remedy

Any living man or living woman who has suffered a wrong at the hands of another individual has a lawful remedy under Common Law to address the wrongdoing. All are equal under the law. Each individual has a duty of care to fellow man, with Common Law principles behind those actions, to live together in peace and harmony.

Order No. 10002/22, Harms

In Common Law, any individual who has, attempted, or conspired to cause damage to another individual, has committed a wrong, known as "harms", and subject to our founding principles. This includes 'harassment', such as 'threats with menaces', considered 'psychological damage', and or 'defamation of character', considered 'damage to reputation'. Any individual that has suffered a harm at another's actions will be able to address and correct this wrong, using a Common Law process called 'commercial lien'.

Order No. 10003/22, Enforcement

When Common Law has been used correctly to address the said wrong(s) and that process has been concluded (perfected), an application can be submitted to the Common Law Court, requesting a decree and/or court order to assist with the enforcement of the decision.

Order No. 10004/22, Authority

This order confirms that Cruinn Community elders ensure compliance with our founding principles and that authority will remain at all times with the living men and living women. All decrees and orders issued will only be obtained when it has been established that the provisions required under Order No. 10003/22 have been complied with in each case. All decrees and orders will be dated and signed by the Common Law Court officials, having obtained the appropriate ruling from a jury of living men and living women.
